Summary

Informatics Engineering graduate with a strong interest in IT implementation, software testing, and business analysis. Currently working as an IT Implementer, supporting application rollouts, functional testing, issue resolution, user training, and system validation. I enjoy bridging the gap between technology, business processes, and user needs to deliver effective technology solutions. With a technical foundation in web development and experience supporting system implementation, I am eager to continuously learn, improve processes, and contribute to technology-driven business solutions.
